Preface

Revised Edition

It is a quarter of a century since the Public Archives of Nova Scotia, under the direction of the Provincial Archivist, Dr. C. Bruce Fergusson, prepared the Directory of the Members of the Legislative Assembly of Nova Scotia, 1758-1958, in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of representative government in Canada. Since then seven general elections have taken place in the Province and representation in the House of Assembly has increased from 37 to 52. Over a span of two centuries the total number of Members elected was 982; today, twenty-five years later, with the 53rd Assembly, the total number is 1104. It should be pointed out, however, that an error in numbering the Journals occurred in 1860, when the 21st Assembly was mistakenly referred to as the 22nd Assembly. Although the error was corrected in 1864, it reappeared the following year and has since been perpetuated. Consequently, to be strictly accurate, the present Assembly should be regarded as the 52nd, rather than the 53rd Assembly of the Province.

Through the years the 1958 Directory has proven to be an invaluable reference source for the politician, historian, genealogist, student and general reader, but understandably it has become increasingly out of date with the passage of time. Recent publications, such as the Dictionary of Canadian Biography, have served to throw more light on many Members of an earlier period; the growth of interest in family history has been responsible for several relevant genealogies, while primary records and newspaper files are more readily accessible.

This edition of the Directory is a complete revision of the earlier material, at the same time incorporating the names of all Members who took their seats for the first time following the election of 1960. The entry format is considerably altered and additional references have been appended to many biographies. It should be emphasized, however, that these biographical references are by no means complete, but are simply suggestions, should further information concerning a subject be desired.

Rather than employ the designation "M.L.A." in the text, as in the case of the former Directory, the subject has been referred to as "Member", e.g. Member for Hants Co., with the constituency name in bold type. The acronym "M.L.A." is of modern origin, indeed, even as recently as this century another expression, "M.P.P." (Member of Provincial Parliament) was common in Nova Scotia.

One striking factor encountered during the revision was the frequent recurrence of proper names in the text, particularly in reference to the early period, giving credence to the belief that Ontario was not alone in fostering a Family Compact. Capital type identifies these names in the body of an entry, as in the case of father and son, or association by marriage, so well exemplified in the biography of Winthrop Sargent, Member for Shelburne County from 1836 to 1840, whose father, two brothers and father-in-law were all Members.

Prior to the 4th decade of the nineteenth century party government as such was not a factor in the political life of Nova Scotia, but with the rising tide of the Reform movement in the 1830's it gradually became dominant and Members were soon identified by their party allegiance. In view of its particular relevance to our political history party designation is included in the Assembly Lists (Appendix A), beginning with the Fifteenth Assembly of 1837, the Constituency Representation (Appendix B), as well as in the text itself.

The task of preparing this edition of the Directory of Members has been an engaging and rewarding one. I am indebted to the Honourable Arthur Donahoe, Speaker of the House, for offering me this particular opportunity of observing the broad spectrum of the Province's political history, which in primacy alone is unique. Many people have assisted me in the undertaking, although I am especially indebted to Dr. J. Murray Beck, whose interest and wise counsel have been invaluable, particularly in interpreting the complicated political affiliations of the Confederation era and its aftermath.

All 138 living Members of the House of Assembly, past and present, were contacted by letter and information received in response has in large measure been incorporated in each entry. The assistance of Mrs. Kathleen MacNearney and Mrs. Helen Kimber, of the Executive Council Office, in providing information relative to Cabinet appointments was much appreciated. I am also indebted to Donald Arthur, Deputy Registrar General, Registration Services, Dr. Robert Morgan, Archivist, of the University of College of Cape Breton, Rev. A. Delbé Comeau, of Yarmouth, and Dr. Allan Marble and John V. Duncanson for their ready cooperation. Dr. Phyllis Blakeley and the staff of the Public Archives of Nova Scotia, where the major portion of this work was undertaken, have been particularly helpful, and I am also grateful to the staff of the Legislative Library, Province House, and of the Kirkconnell Room, Acadia University Library. Finally I would like to express my most sincere thanks to Mrs. Nancy Kinsman, of the Office of the Speaker, who was responsible for typing the copy and whose interest and dedication have done much to enhance my own pleasure in the execution of this work.

Preface

1958 Edition

This volume was prepared as a contribution of the Public Archives of Nova Scotia to the celebration of the bicentenary of the establishment of representative government in this country. It is the result of the co-operative and careful effort of several members of the staff. Projected for this occasion and embodying information compiled in advance or collected as the work progressed, it began to take form in 1957 when two research assistants — Mrs. R.A.G. Ritchie and Miss Mary Whiteside — were assigned to the task, and Miss Phyllis Blakeley, Senior Research Assistant, and Miss Caroline Bennet, another member of the staff of the Public Archives of Nova Scotia, shortly afterwards also began work on it. All four have been assiduous and enthusiastic in their assistance.

Grateful acknowledgement is made of the kind permission of Dr. J.S. Robertson, Deputy Minister of Public Health and Deputy Registrar General, to consult records in the Vital Statistics Division of the Department of Public Health. For information generously provided my thanks are also extended not only to the present members of the House of Assembly of Nova Scotia, but also to municipal clerks throughout the province and other persons who answered inquiries, as well as to Miss Marie A. Boyd of Cannes, Richmond County, Dr. L.A. DeWolfe, Truro, and Miss Shirley Elliott, Legislative Librarian, in Halifax.

Lastly, I must also extend my sincere appreciation to Mrs. R.A.G. Ritchie for patient and faithful typewriting.

Introduction by Speaker

Twenty-six years have elapsed since C. Bruce Fergusson prepared A Directory of the Members of the Legislative Assembly of Nova Scotia, 1758-1958. During that time many individuals, including the first women, have been elected to the Nova Scotia Legislature. Thus it appeared appropriate that the Directory be updated and revised.

Former Legislative Librarian Shirley Elliott's keen interest in public affairs, together with her work at Province House give her unique qualifications to undertake the preparation of this expanded Directory. Her access to information not previously published and her scrupulous attention to detail have resulted in not just a new edition, but really a new book. In my opinion, this volume will be the essential reference work for those seeking information concerning the men and women who have served in the Legislature of this Province by the sea since parliamentary government in what is now Canada began in Nova Scotia in 1758.

The members whose biographical sketches appear in these pages played important roles in the attainment of representative government, the struggle for responsible government, the political upheaval caused by Confederation and in the public life of this province down to the present day. This is not an effort to write history, but to provide concise information about people who made history and I am grateful to Shirley Elliott for having so thoroughly carried out this important task.

Hon. Arthur R. Donahoe, Q.C.
Speaker of the Nova Scotia Legislature

Fifteenth Assembly

Election - writ issued Nov. 2, 1836
returnable Jan. 12, 1837
Convened January 31, 1837
Dissolved October 21, 1840
Five sessions

In 1836 there had been forty-four members; in 1837 there were five additional members; giving a total of forty-nine. This was the result of the division of Shelburne County into Shelburne and Yarmouth Counties; Halifax County into Colchester, Pictou, and Halifax Counties; Cape Breton County into Cape Breton, Juste-au-Corps (which was changed in 1837 to Inverness), and Richmond Counties; Sydney County into Sydney and Guysborough Counties; and the addition of the townships of Argyle and Pictou. Each township had one representative, except Halifax, which retained two; but there was a readjustment of representation among the counties so that while most of the old counties retained two members, Shelburne County lost one, Cape Breton County lost two of its three, and Halifax County lost two of its four. Of the new counties Guysborough and Pictou had two representatives, while Colchester, Juste-au-Corps, Richmond, and Yarmouth had one each.

Only two elected members, Robicheau and Freeman, were not sworn in on January 31, 1837.

Twenty-first Assembly* [J.H.A. 22]

Election May 12, 1859
Convened January 26, 1860
Dissolved May 1, 1863
Four sessions

An effort was made to equalize the elective franchise in certain counties where all electors were not included in townships which had special representation, by abolishing the privilege of voting for both township and county members, and creating electoral division in which each man should have one vote only. Voting was to be by counties only, while the township representation was to be abolished by adding in each case the representative or representatives to the county. Annapolis, Cumberland, Digby, Inverness, and Lunenburg had three representatives each; Cape Breton, Guysborough, Richmond, Sydney, and

*FOOTNOTE:
In the Journal of the House of Assembly for the session of 1860, the session is listed as the "First Session of the Twenty-second Assembly". This was an error and should have been named the First Session of the Twenty-first Assembly. In 1864 the error was corrected with the Journal of that year headed "First Session of the Twenty-second Assembly". The next year, however, the error of 1860 was perpetuated, with the Journal reading "Second Session of the Twenty-third Assembly". Successive Journals follow this inaccurate numbering. In this list, the correct numbering of the Assemblies is given, with the inaccurate number of the Journals in square brackets for the convenience of researchers wishing to consult the Journals.

Victoria had two each. Colchester, Halifax, Hants, Kings, Pictou, and Queens were divided into two electoral divisions, each of which had two representatives, except the western electoral division of Halifax, which included the city of Halifax and was to have three representatives, and Queens, which had one representative for the county and one each for each district. Hants and Richmond each lost one representative; Cape Breton, Halifax, Inverness, and Pictou each gained an additional representative. No change was made in Shelburne or Yarmouth because the two townships of each comprised the whole county. As a result of this legislation the total number of representatives was increased to fifty-five.

All members elected appeared and took their seats on January 26, 1860.

Forty-second Assembly [J.H.A. 43]

Election October 23, 1945
Convened March 14, 1946
Dissolved April 27, 1949
Four sessions

Cochrane's name is not on the list of the members-elect who appeared and took their seats on March 14, 1946, nor is there any other record of his having taken his seat. However, on March 15 he was placed on certain standing committees, being chairman of one, and the report for that committee bears his signature. Probably Cochrane's name should have been on the original list.
